Kiwanis Ladies' Night Established a Record

On Tuesday evening the Kiwanis Club held their annual Ladies' Night, and the attendance was the largest on record, about two hundred being assembled around the festive board. The occasion was a very delightful affair, as in addition to the entertainment given by Mr. J. J. Duggan of Edmonton, several musical selections were given, including solos by Miss Jessup of Edmonton, with Miss J. J. Duggan as accompanist. Mrs. Tony Johnson and Stewart Campbell, while the male quartette rendered a burlesque number which was very amusing. Mesdames Condie, Atkinson and Miss Johnson rendered a trio on the xylophone and violin which was greatly enjoyed. Community singing was led by Stewart Campbell, with Mrs. Murdoch as pianist.

Kiwanians Fraser, Stock, Anderson, Manley, Fresson and Ragosin, and Ian Barry, staged a skit in which the names of several professional and business men were brought in. The theme was the benefit to be derived by being a member of the Kiwanis Club, and it was a real "hit."

D. M. Duggan, M.L.A., of Edmonton, who accompanied his brother, spoke briefly and extended greetings from the Edmonton Rotary Club. The principal speaker was Mr. J. J. Duggan and he related several very amusing stories. The subject of his address was "Rural Life in the Unforgotten Valley," and he referred to many incidents which he experienced in his boyhood days in Wales. He advised everyone to occasionally turn their thoughts to olden days and remember the simplicity of life and the attractiveness of their youth.

Mr. Duggan was introduced by Kiwanian J. E. Fraser, and Kiwanian C. H. Russell, Lieut. Governor of the Alberta District, suitably thanked the speaker for his very interesting and amusing address. President Frank Abousaury was in the chair.

Town Topics

Bergen Karlsson is home visiting his parents. He will return to Quebec, B.C., where he has spent some time.

H. J. Montgomery, M.L.A., was in Calgary last week attending the funeral of the late Geo. H. Webster, M.L.A.

Mrs. B. W. Bellamy left for Ontario a few days ago in response to a telegram informing her that her mother was seriously ill.

The fire brigade was called out on Saturday evening to extinguish a chimney fire at the home of R. Hawkins. No damage was done.

The annual chicken dinner under the auspices of the Swedish Mission Church on Friday evening last, was a very gratifying success.

During the high wind storm Saturday evening, some damage was done in town, and several telephones were put out of commission.

Some misunderstanding having arisen regarding the tickets for the play "The Absentminded Bridegroom," the committee in charge wish it to be understood that the tickets sold are good for either evening.

All the Wetaskiwin High School teachers attended the convention in Edmonton last week. Miss J. McLean was elected as a member of the executive committee for the ensuing year.

Relief costs in Alberta are higher than in any other province, and reductions will be necessary. It was stated by A. MacKenzie chairman of the relief commission, on his return from a conference in Ottawa.

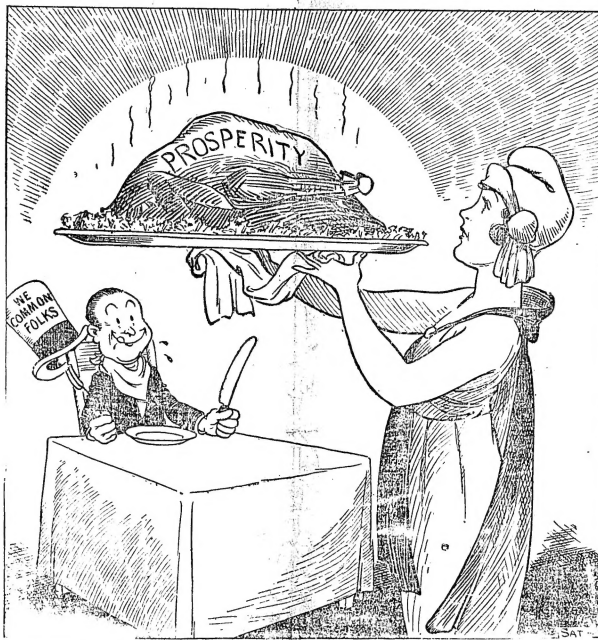

Improving conditions throughout the old country were reflected in an announcement by the London North-eastern railway that it will spend $2,300,000 in a betterment program, including the construction of 100 new locomotives.

Peggy, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Blundell, met with a serious accident when knocked down by a steer, who dashed at her in the barnyard. She received a broken shoulder bone and other injuries.

A significant editorial appeared in the Downsville Statesman last week when it said: "We are not suggesting that we are in agreement with everything the C.C.F. stands for, or that all its policy is practicable, but any organization that puts human factors before material things, that believes as all Christians should, that all have equal right to live reasonably well, that do not cater to the financial barons who are the real dictators and rulers of this country, has something new and worthwhile. It at least carries through its policy a sense of true British justice, of Christian brotherhood, and of fair play that is sadly lacking in our Dominion life today."

One article published recently in The Wetaskiwin Times was quoted by no less than twenty-five papers in Canada, including the following: Record, Fort Saskatchewan; Globe, Toronto; Herald, Halifax; Chronicle, Halifax; Enterprise, Blairmore; Beacon-Herald, Strathmore; Citizen Sun, Truro, N.S.; Mercury, New Brunswick; Evening Tribune, Winnipeg; Times-Journal, St. Thomas, Ont.; Times, Port Elgin, Ont.; Province, Inuvik, Alta.; News, Inuvik, Alta.; Standard, Inuvik, Alta.; Standard, Cornwall, Ont.; Breeze, Canoe, N.S.; Maple Leaf, Port Denver, Ont.; Sentinel, Kamloops, B.C.; Advance, Dutton, Ont.; Herald, Hants, Alta.; and Mirror, Winnipeg, Ont. And, by the way, the article quoted a comparison between the micrograph or circular form of advertising and the home newspaper.

THE FISH WE'RE ALL WAITING FOR ## REMEMBRANCE DAY WAS OBSERVED

Remembrance Day was fittingly celebrated here on Saturday last, when a service was conducted in the Audien Theatre under the auspices of Peace Hill Chapter I.O.O.F. and Wetaskiwin Post No. 54 Canadian Legion. Many Veterans of the Wetaskiwin district and the Girl Guides, Brownies, Boy Scouts and Cubs, assembled at the Alexandra School grounds and paraded to the theatre, headed by the Wetaskiwin Legion Band. The theatre was well filled. Comrade E. T. Williamson was chairman, and a massed choir led the singing. Promptly at 11 o'clock two minutes silence was observed. Mrs. W. E. Janzen rendered "There Is No Death" as a solo, and the Kiwanis Male Quartette sang "The Unknown Dead."

Rev. A. M. Trendell was the speaker for the occasion, and he delivered an excellent address. He stated: "I have three pictures in my mind this morning gleaned from the library of things ancient and modern."

The first is suggested by another memorial service which is held on the first Sunday in every August around a flag-pole at the foot of the Angel Glacier on Mt. Edith Cavell in Jasper National Park. This service is unique in many ways for it is attended every year by people from all over the world, who have come to pay honour to the name of Edith Cavell who gave her life during the last war. It will be recalled that on the night before her death she made this statement that "I must bear no malice or hatred in my heart towards anyone," and her last words on the following morning were that "Patriotism is not enough." Those two statements are in my mind now as I address you.

The next picture comes from the Western Front during those war years in which our soldier sons and brothers gave all that they could give in defence of principles and honour, so that you and I might live in peace and happiness. It is in memory of them that we are here today, and we can never be too grateful to them for the sacrifice which they made. But with that feeling of gratitude there is, I hope, in the minds of us all, a stern resolve that we will so live that they may not have died in vain.

The last picture is taken from the hills of Palestine and is concerned with the occasion when our Lord was to hear His message. He was comparing the old dispensation of the law of Moses with the more perfect way that He had there to teach. "Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbour, and hate thine enemy. But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that despitefully use you and persecute you."

So much then for our pictures, but many of us are here also with a question in our minds. What has been the result of all that sacrifice? You were promised when the war was over that you would come back and find homes fit for heroes to live in. You were fighting in a war that was to end wars. Yet the truth remains that there are thousands of you everywhere, still living in abject poverty with little or no prospects for the future, and as for a war to end wars, there is less and less prospect of that as the days go by. The countries you fought for are now overwhelmed with debt which can never be paid, and there is growing hatred and mistrust everywhere.

We know now that war is economically absurd, it ever calls for the sacrifice of the best, it ensures displacement of the world trade, and its aftermath must be inevitably a bequeathing to the generation that comes after a burden that is too heavy to be borne.

And yet we are told that England in spite of her pacific policy is re-arming at the will of the people. When you ask "Why?" the answer is because it is the most logical thing to do. Germany is more logical still in teaching her youth the horrors of war in all their beastliness, educating them in the art of spreading plague and disease. If you consent to be the servants of the powers of darkness you must be faithful servants and not waste your time in any compromise. We are still content to serve under the powers of darkness and so if we are going to be logical we must continue to practise the art of war in all its horror.

These powers of darkness are not going forward than other countries, more than the competitive systems under which we are living, and to which we are still clinging. The law of competition when it is stripped of all its finery is nothing less than the law of the survival of the fittest. If you win in the struggle then someone else goes down. If your country goes forward then other countries fall behind, and the only outcome to that policy is war. You fought for a world brotherhood, competition is making of the world a battlefield, and all the peace pacts, all the League of Nations in the world will never keep you from war, for this is the inevitable outcome of the system. Until these latter days the evils of the competitive system have to some extent been masked; to-day the science of mechanization, and industrialization has removed that mask and we may as well recognize it before it is too late.

But we are not here to let our hands in helplessness and think that we can do nothing to avoid the catastrophe that lies along this path, for there is another way that has not as yet received due and proper consideration. This is the way of co-operation. It was given first of all by God before Christ, it was confirmed in every detail by the Son of God Himself as being the only way to the Kingdom of God, and we all of us know quite well what that way is. It is embodied in the Ten Commandments, it is implicit in the Sermon on the Mount, and human nature today is not ready for the change that Christ's way will bring, because human nature has not really tried it.

Let us think of one more picture. It is drawn from a prison house in Rome. St. Paul is writing a circular letter to the seven Churches that are in Asia, the letter that bears the title of the Epistle to the Ephesians, and the letter from which we read an extract in our second Scripture reading this morning. He is writing under conditions which in many ways parallel the present day. Persecution of all that was best and true is rife throughout the Roman Empire, many have given their lives in defence of the same principles for which we fought during the last war, and the Empire itself is tottering through neglect of those very standards. And as the Apostle reviews the situation he writes that we wrestle not against flesh and blood but against principalities and powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. Today we would find it very difficult to place the blame for our present conditions on the shoulders of any individual or a group of individuals, unless perhaps we blamed the armament firms of the world. We are wrestling against powers, against systems that are evil, we too are faced with spiritual wickedness in high places. So we would do well to follow the advice of St. Paul as he writes to those seven Churches in Asia. "Wherefore," he writes, "Put on the whole armour of God that ye may be able to stand in the evil day, and having done all to stand." To accept his advice it is necessary to have a first of all to get a right mental attitude towards the Kingdom of God. This Kingdom is not promised to us only when we are dead; it is not to be filled with angels playing golden harps, but it is to be filled with honest business men who are conducting an honest business in the place where they find themselves. It is to be filled again."

U.F.A. Provincial Constituency Convention

The annual convention of the Wetaskiwin Provincial Constituency Association of the U.F.A. and U.F.W.A. was held at the U.F.A. Hall on Tuesday, November 14th, with eighteen delegates representing ten locals. A large number of visiting members and several others interested in the movement were also present. Owing to the bad roads, several delegates were unable to be present. However, the convention, with a crowded hall, was very enthusiastic, with evidence of the old fighting spirit, which predominated when the farmers took political control. The summary of the resolutions passed is as follows:

"Calling for a Dominion wheat board to handle Canada's wheat crop through the structure of the existing International Wheat Conference on a basis of a 50% of the normal seasonal production, etc."

Another calling for the Provincial Association Board action in giving publicity to U.F.A. matters. A spirited debate over the resolution calling for a check on locals being raised for purely nominating purposes, and a time limit being set, was disposed of satisfactorily.

A resolution bringing in the financial aspect regarding furthering organization work was heartily endorsed. Another resolution calling for certain changes in the educational system was passed.

A hearty and unanimous vote of confidence was passed to the Hon. J. E. Brownlee. Another hearty vote of appreciation was passed to the officers of the Association for their past work. The following were elected for 1934: President, E. R. Rasmussen (re-elected); 1st Vice-President, W. Stevens; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. T. H. Hovet (re-elected); Sec.-Treas., J. O. Harvey (re-elected).

An important discussion took place regarding the rural telephone situation, and several points of information.

CENTRAL SCORES 330 TO WIN ALBERTA TITLE

Edmonton, Nov. 12.—Playing inspired rugby against a heavier aggregation of players, Coach Archie McTeer's Central High school team of Calgary won the 1933 provincial senior interscholastic grid title here Saturday by overwhelming Garneau High school of Edmonton, 33-0.

Going ahead in the first quarter when Galt Egan kicked a field goal for three points, the Calgary boys never looked like losing the encounter. In the second session they rolled up three touchdowns, two of them converted, and for the rest of the game they took things easy, counting another field goal in the third session and two more touchdowns in the closing session.

ROYAL COMMISSION RECOMMENDS CENTRAL BANK

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—With the two Canadian bankers dissenting, the majority of the Royal Commission of five appointed to investigate Canada's banking and currency system, recommends that a central bank for Canada be "forthwith established."

Since all parties in the House of Commons are apparently committed to the setting up of such an institution, it is likely this will be one of parliament's first actions when it assembles in January. Nothing in the report would indicate that the central bank would have any direct power to render credits more accessible to agriculture but a special chapter deals with this problem.

The commission suggests a Dominion-provincial investigation to devise some organization for the extension of intermediate and short term agricultural credit.

Several recommendations for minor changes in general banking practice are made but in the main the commission found little fault with the existing system, except in the lack of a central bank.

The proposal is the establishment of a central bank structure of which the governor, deputy governor and directors would, in the first instance, be appointed by the Governor-in-Council, and thereafter by the shareholders with the approval of the Governor-in-Council.

It would have a capital of $5,000,000 open to subscription by all British subjects resident in Canada, and all excess profits would revert to the government.

The chairman, Lord Macmillan, Sir Charles Addis, and Hon. J. E. Brownlee were the majority favoring the setting up of a central bank. Sir Thomas White and Beaudry Leman submitted individual statements setting forth their objections particularly on the grounds that even if such an institution may eventually prove essential in Canada, the present troubled state of finance and business would be an inopportune time for such a venture.

Mr. Brownlee, while agreeing to the main recommendation, filed a dissenting statement with respect to the structure of the bank. He would have the entire capital subscribed by the government and the appointment of officers remain perpetually with the federal administration, rather than the proposed system of private ownership.

Four of the commissioners were agreed on abolition of the statute fixing the maximum interest rate charged by banks at 7 per cent. Mr. Brownlee dissented but all agreed that if the regulation were to be retained, that section of the Bank Act should be made clear and a penalty imposed for any contravention. Other recommendations submitted for consideration of parliament in revising the Bank Act, and for private initiative of the banks themselves, may be summarized as follows:

In the interests of farmers who generally require credit running from 6 to 12 months, "the banks would be well advised in the case of satisfactory customers, to endeavor to meet their wishes and convenience in this matter."

Abolition of the charge of operating accounts and collecting cheques. That the banks be permitted to continue in the investment business but restrict their ventures to the highest class securities available.

Alberta News Letter

(Issued by Publicity Commissioner, Government Buildings, Edmonton, Friday, November 10, 1933.)

Alberta Turkeys in New Zealand
In far away New Zealand, the largest turkey farm in that country has been built up from foundation stock secured from turkey breeders in Alberta, according to information from the provincial poultry department.

This New Zealand farm is owned and operated by a woman, Mrs. Katherine Bull, who purchased her stock from Alberta many years ago. She forwards a photograph of her flock recently taken by the governor-general of New Zealand, and she has also placed a further order for breeding stock with the provincial government.

Butter Production Heavier

This year bids fair to provide a new record production of creamery butter in Alberta. Already for the ten months of the present year an increase of 13 per cent has been recorded, the deliveries of butter to the creameries totaling 17,944,267 lbs. compared with 15,772,706 lbs. for the same period of last year. The province's previous record in creamery butter production was in 1931 when over 22,000,000 lbs. was manufactured. The total for this year will likely reach 23,000,000 lbs.

Alberta's Corn Belt

The city of Lethbridge held its annual corn show last week, an event which has been a feature now for nearly ten years, during which period Southern Alberta has established itself as a real corn belt. In this connection it is interesting to recall that at the recent world grain congress in Regina, southern Alberta corn exhibitors in one class of corn took 35 per cent of the money offered in competition with exhibitors from Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, British Columbia, New Brunswick and the United States.

World Grain Congress Prizes

Analysis of Alberta prize winners at Regina world congress as they are divided between Southern, Central and Northern Alberta, shows that the southern part of the province took 6 prizes, or 37 per cent of the total number awarded to Alberta, and 29 per cent of the total money which came to this province. Central Alberta took 51 prizes or 30 per cent, with 13½ per cent of the money awards. Northern Alberta which includes the Grande Prairie and Wembley districts, took 59 prizes or 33½ per cent with a total of over $26,000, or 65 per cent of the money awards. To Southern Alberta went the World's championship in wheat with its single award of $2,000.

LOOK OUT FOR THESE SYMPTOMS OF CONSTIPATION

Get Relief With Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexion, and sleeplessness are often warning signs of common constipation. Unless checked, constipation may impair health.

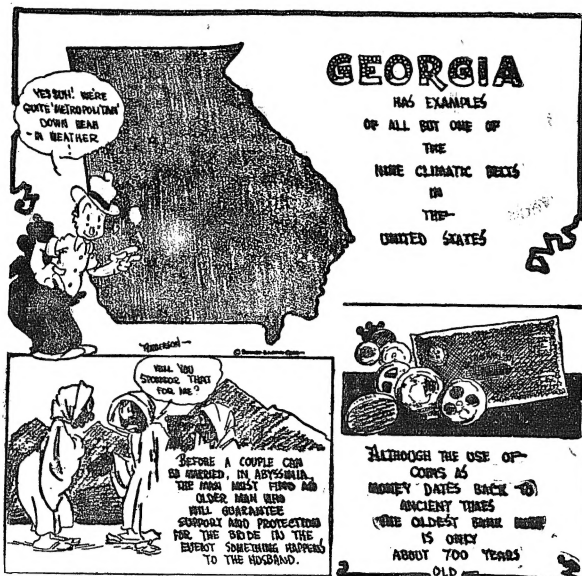

Today, you can get rid of common constipation by simply eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularly. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than taking patent medicines.

Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation. Serious cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

ODD—but True!

Troubled With Her Liver Coated Tongue Every Morning

Mrs. A. J. Lasky, Alberton, Sask., writes: "I had trouble with my liver, and every morning I would wake up with a thick coated tongue, and would feel so tired I found it hard to do my household work. One day I read about Milburn's Laxative Pills. I got two vials and am now feeling well again, and am able to attend to my household duties without any trouble."

For sale at all drug and general stores; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Many failing some definite gesture of support, or guarantee, from the British government.

That support has now been given. "Petrol from coal"—the dream of the coalfield populations of Northumberland and Durham for the past ten years—has become a reality.

Accordingly Sir Harry McGowan, chairman of Imperial Chemical Industries, says that Billingham-on-Tees will become the centre of an industry aiming to produce 100,000 tons a year of Grade 1 petrol, processing 400 tons of coal a day and using altogether 1,000 tons of coal a day. This will give direct permanent employment to 2,500 men and to others indirectly.

Over the next eighteen months 7,000 men will be engaged on building and erecting the plant.

Relief costs in Alberta are higher than in any other province, and reductions will be necessary, it was stated by A. A. MacKenzie, chairman of the relief commission, on his return from a conference in Ottawa.

SCHOOLBOY HOWLERS

The following collection of schoolboy howlers has been taken from recent examination papers:

The Long Parliament said that no persons were to be beheaded without their consent.

Double dealing is when you buy something wholesale to sell retail. Alton wrote "Paradise Lost"; then his wife died and he wrote "Paradise Regained."

In the spring the salmon ascends fresh water streams to spawn. A circle is a round line with no kinks in it, joined up so as not to how where it began.

Latitude tells you how hot you are; Longitude how cold you are. People go to Africa to hunt rhinoceroses.

All Baha means being away when the crime was committed. A deacon is a mass of inflammable material placed in a prominent position to warn the people.

A litre is a nest of young puppies. Letters in sloping type are in hysterics.

QUAINT CHINESE CUSTOM

Slanting eyes peering from shuttered windows in Limehouse could not have terrified a young Regina lady more than what she saw in a section of Regia's own Chinatown.

It was what appeared to be a human hand, hanging in the sunlight behind a Chinese laundry, whitened bones showing through shrivelled flesh. She told a boy of her nerve-wracking discovery. He, in turn, told a policeman.

The Chinese laundryman said it was a bear's paw. The matter was referred to a Patrol Sergeant, who continued the investigation. The Sergeant did not uncover a sinister Oriental crime, but he did learn of a quaint custom of the Chinese.

It was a bear's paw. The Chinese said he had got three of them from a fellow countryman at The Pas, Manitoba. Chinese, learned Sergeant Anderson, value bear's paws highly.

They skin the paws, treat them and "mudry" them. They then put them in Chinese rice whiskey and other ingredients, letting them soak for a time. After that the bones are removed and the liquid is used as medicine.

The most value is attached to the paws of bears killed in the spring because the bears sleep all winter and the front paws grow fleshy since they are not used for scratching and digging.

Improving conditions throughout the old country were reflected in an announcement by the London North-east railway that it will spend $2,300,000 in a betterment program, including the construction of 100 new locomotives.

It pays to read advertising messages in this paper, week by week. They contain store news, and information of much value—offerings of bargain buys which mean money saved to the careful shopper. Incidentally, it is mighty poor economy to be without the local paper—its advertising news alone will, in the course of a year, more than repay in dollars and cents the price of the annual subscription.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

With the growing knowledge of hypertension and its significance in the ranks of the medical profession has come an increasing interest in the subject on the part of the public.

And, as usual, the incomplete information most people have been given regarding the topic has given rise to many misconceptions. Some of them as humorous as they are unfounded.

What Blood Pressure Signifies
Everyone has blood pressure—certain normal degree. By blood pressure is meant the tension exerted upon the walls of an artery by the column of blood within the vessel. When this tension is too high or too low, for reasons presently to be given, then it becomes a symptom of disease and a menace to the life and well-being of the organism.

The blood pressure is divided into three phases: diastolic, systolic, pulse. The diastolic pressure is the tension inside the arteries during the instant the heart is resting between beats and which it must overcome by its contractile force before the blood will begin to circulate. The systolic pressure is the tension in the vessels at each contraction of the heart during which time a fresh volume of blood is driven into the arteries. The pulse pressure is the difference between the diastolic and systolic, and represents the power of the heart over and above the diastolic pressure.

Causes of High Blood Pressure
The causes of hypertension are numerous and various. In general terms whatever increases the force of the heart's action and reduces the elasticity of the vessels leads to high blood pressure and all so-called causes of hypertension come under one of these two heads.

Perhaps one of the commonest causes is overeating. Since the organism has a limited capacity for digesting and assimilating food, exceeding this limit leaves a certain amount of toxic residue. These toxins are highly irritating in addition to placing an extra load on the heart, liver and kidneys. It follows that reduction in the amount of food eaten is the proper remedy in such cases.

Alcoholic drinks stimulate the heart and load the blood with toxins not only of the alcohol itself but of food toxins which are a result of the repression of the digestive process. It should be cut out—Copyright.

OVER PRODUCTION

(By Mrs. Hugh Roberts)
Too much oats and too much wheat,
Too much corn and too much heat,
Too much cotton and too much oil,
Too many hours that we don't toil,
Too many highways, too many cars,
Too many people behind the bars,
Too much poverty, too much wealth,
Too many people with too poor health,
Too many politics, too much booze,
Too many people wearing high-heeled shoes,
Too many loafing and too many bets,
Too many failing to pay their debts,
Too many spending their dough for gas,
Too many talking of Europe's sars,
Too many buying beyond their means,
Too many buying canned corn and beans,
Too many sowing their wild oats,
Too many candidates after votes,
Too many hiring their washing done,
Too many playing bridge for fun,
Too many looking to Johnny Bull,
Too many people don't give a damn,
Too many poets, too much prose,
Too many girls without under-clothes,
Too much buying of goods on time,
Too many people don't save a dime,
Too much golf, too much play,
Too many officers on big pay,
Too much taxes, too much spent,
Too many folks spend every cent,
Too much reforms, too much law,
The darndest mess you ever saw.

Bacon production in England has increased so greatly that the government has found it necessary to reduce by 16 per cent bacon imports from foreign countries.

There are none to dispute that strict sobriety is one of the greatest assets of the nation. We often hear "He is a fine fellow in many ways, but he drinks," and the discount at which this fine fellow passes is registered at all exchange counters. But his premium in social currency is registered when it is said "He is a fine fellow and he doesn't drink." It might be interesting to try to figure out what the country owes to those parents, teachers and preachers who have made their contribution to the highest wealth of the nation by helping with precept and example to send boys and girls out into the world pledged against alcoholic beverages.

Very different the brazen selfishness of the brewers, whose avowed purpose is to inculcate the beer drinking habit among youthful non-drinkers. We quote Sir Edgar Sanders, director of the Brewers' Society in Great Britain: "We want new customers. We want to get the beer-drinking habit instilled into thousands, almost millions of young men who do not at present know the taste of beer." The temperance forces of Great Britain have taken up the challenge and will oppose the brewers' purpose to enslave youth.

A national crusade has been launched to awaken public opinion to this menace. The churches are being enlisted in this campaign to safeguard the youth of the nation. The late H. H. Hull, whose faithful and efficient work is of so recent memory, expressed the opinion that the church membership of Alberta could carry any temperance measure and ensure a reasonable enforcement if only they were alive to the danger and in consequent real earnest. The Hon. Lloyd George has asked if the church of God does not put over this temperance question, who will?

Lord Rhayader, a strong opponent of the liquor traffic ever in the British House of Lords, opposed the proposal to reduce the tax on beer in order to increase consumption and revenue. Lord Rhayader leaves in temperance progress in Britain owing to legislation, education and recreation, a glorious trinity enlisted against alcoholic evil.

The world Economic Conference had to deal with a proposal from the wine growing countries for a world wide campaign to increase the consumption of wine. The sub-committee on production and marketing refused its approval.

The Hoover school has just had the name and School District No. 561 freshly painted in large letters over the door. We think Mr. Hoover of Montana has had this done, as he was instrumental in helping form the first school here years ago, and the school was given his name.

This neighborhood was shocked to hear of the untimely death of Mr. Robert McIntyre, which occurred on Monday. During the wind storm on Saturday night last, a roof was blown off a barn, striking Mr. McIntyre on the head, rendering him unconscious. He was rushed to the hospital, but did not regain consciousness. Mr. McIntyre, in company with Ted Fowler of Perintosh, had spent the past two weeks in the Yeoford district visiting and hunting, and they were just starting for home when the accident happened. Funeral services were held at his home on Wednesday. Robert was one of the most highly respected young men of the district. He is survived by his father and mother, two sisters, Gertrude and Anna, and one brother, Orville.

A large number of relatives and friends attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Stanley Frybirt held at Wetaskiwin last Monday.

BATTLE LAKE

The harvest festival held recently in the church was a decided success. The church was tastefully decorated with sheaves of grain and vegetables, the candles in the windows adding much to the effect. At 7:30 about sixty sat down to a delicious chicken supper. Following this, the gathering was entertained by a program consisting of readings, songs by the school children and special harvest songs and instrumental selections by members of the community. The enjoyable evening was brought to a close by an address by Rev. Brandt and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Ben Pears, Billy Young and Wilbur Kemmy left last week for the Brazosa River, where they will spend two weeks big game hunting.

Mrs. Helen Moody is home again after spending three weeks in Edmonton, the guest of Mrs. Eastman.

Among the guests at Fullerton's on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leeman, and Mr. and Mrs. Ole Hauge of Pigeon Lake, Mrs. G. Hawney and Helen, Mr. and Mrs. W. James and Willa, and Miss Bertha Paulson.

There will be a service in the church on Sunday at 11 a.m. A short Sunday school session will follow.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bunney of Wetaskiwin, passed through the district on Friday, enroute to Wenham Valley to visit with their sons for a few days.

Mrs. H. Nadeau arrived here several days ago from the States. Mr. Nadeau, accompanied by his three sons, motored up, and we understand they intend to make their home here. Mrs. Nadeau and other members of the family are expected to arrive before long.

Some of the young people have had several real good skates on the lake since it froze over a week ago. The ice, which is quite soft already, may go out altogether with a few more days of mild weather.

Arthur Hawney, Emil Ebert and K. O. Hauge have also joined the throng of big game hunters going west.

The road to the Freeman-Nadeau camp was completely blocked on Sunday, due to the terrific wind which struck here on Saturday night. The men reported over three hundred trees across the road.

GWYNNE

Barbara Johnson of Wenham, is spending a few days visiting at St. Girard's.

Rhoda Lee, who is attending high school at Camrose, spent the week-end at her home here.

Old Man Winter seems to have deserted us lately. We are enjoying the fine weather, if it wasn't for the mud.

A very successful dance was held here last Friday. Most of the surrounding districts were well represented.

Percy Odel, Ben Waters and Dick Raperius returned Monday night from a hunting trip with their game, and report a very enjoyable trip.

Quite a crowd attended the turkey shoot held here by the Logan Bros. last Wednesday.

A farewell party was held here on Monday night in honor of Glyn Wilson, who is leaving for England.

A special meeting of the Gwynne Sunshine Club was held at Art Newman's last Monday. Arrangements were made for a bazaar to be held in December.

LONE RIDGE LOCAL U.F.A.

The above local opened its winter schedule with a very successful gathering at the Lone Ridge hall on Tuesday evening, the 7th inst. Quite a large number were present when the President, Mr. W. Stevens, opened the meeting.

Following "O Canada," community singing under leadership of A. C. Spruille started the proceedings.

Several items of business were attended to, and resolutions to be submitted to the forthcoming Convention were discussed, and delegates appointed to attend that Convention.

After the business session, Miss Revis also rendered two songs which were much appreciated. Mrs. Wm. Irvine kindly accompanied on the piano.

The President then called upon Mr. Wm. Irvine to address the meeting.

Mr. Irvine gave a short but forceful address on the aims of the C.C.F. following on an address given in the hall some time ago. The speaker also rendered in detail some of the phases of the C.C.F. program and promised to return at an early date to still further carry on his explanation of those proposals.

Mr. Irvine was the recipient of a very hearty vote of thanks, and the other artists who had contributed to the success of a very pleasant evening.

The next meeting will be held in the hall on Dec. 5th, at the usual hour. This will be the annual meeting and election of officers for the next year. It is hoped as many will turn out to that meeting as did to the one just past.

The furniture workers' strike at Stratford, Ont., came to an end, and six factories resumed operations.

CUT THIS OUT

EXCELLENT RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRH DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrh, Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means deafness or else the disease may be driven down the air passages towards the lungs which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used extensively is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers.

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmit (Double Strength). Take this ounce and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easier and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parmit used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. This preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.

Could Not Sleep at Night
Tired Out During the Day

Mrs. N. W. Lukowey, Oakburn, Man., writes: "After an operation I was left in a very weak and run down condition. I could not sleep at night, and would be all tired during the day."

I tried all kinds of medicine, but none of them helped me until I used Wilburn's H. & N. Pills. I took two boxes and I am very thankful for the help they gave me. I would strongly advise all those being in a run down condition to give these Pills a thorough trial."

REMEMBRANCE DAY

ed with women who are trying to uphold the standards of society; with men and women who are training their children in the way they should go. Its future is in Heaven, but its beginnings are certainly on earth, and we pray daily that God's Kingdom may come on earth as it is in Heaven. We are bidden to work for an ideal state, an ideal world, a kingdom where the kings of the earth will bring their glory and honour into it and where nations will walk in the light of it.

It is not a hopeless ideal impossible of attainment, but it can only be won by human beings putting on the whole armour of God. Wherefore, my friends, Christianity is not a harmless hobby which is good for women, and children, but it is a vital necessity for all mankind. It is not a pious form of sentimentality, but calls for the bravest and best that we can offer, and the challenge of those who today sit in splendour and ease is the challenge to us to get back to God. Recognize that we are soldiers of God, that we are called upon to live for the Kingdom of which He is the Architect. That Christianity is the Blueprint of that Kingdom, and that prayer represents the daily study of that Blueprint so that we may know the next step and find His courage and His strength to take it.

Now here is the real challenge of Armistice Day. We are here to keep in memory the names of those who gave their lives in defence of principles, who offered themselves as protection for us; they gave all they had; what are we giving in return? We are called to get back to God and yet we make the excuse that we have no time; we have forgotten to pray, we go to Church when there is nothing else to do, in short, they gave their all, we give as little as we possibly can, and that is how we honour their name.

Years ago, throughout the length and breadth of England the posters could be seen "Your King and Country need you." Join the army today. "In this year of grave those posters have been changed and now read "Your King and Christ need you. Join the Army of Christ today." I call to mind an epitaph in an Old Country churchyard which reads as follows: "Here lies an old soldier who all may record, He fought many battles at home and abroad. But the hottest engagement he ever was in Was the fight against self in the battle of sin."

Are you prepared to enlist in this campaign? In facing the challenge of those soldier sons are you prepared to take up the torch where they have laid it down? If so, they will not have died in vain; if not, then the only outcome must be another war which will spell the destruction of our modern civilization.

I will close with a story that I heard over the radio some two years ago. A boy had died in front of him, a huge jigsaw puzzle of the world, and for hours he had been working on it, and he could go no further. His mother found him in tears and on enquiring the reason was told that the lad could not find a place in his puzzle for Ireland. There was that little bit of Cuba that would not fit. Germany was not the right shape, Russia was all wrong, and a piece of China could not be found. "Well," said the mother, "let us turn the puzzle over and see what is on the other side, and that may help us."

They found that there was indeed a pattern on the other side, and he found long they did indeed find that it was intended to be the figure of a man. They found the pieces for his legs, then the parts that went to form the body and the arms, and last of all there was the head. Every piece of the puzzle had been fitted in; the man was complete, and lo, when they turned it over, the world was right. Home. St. Paul writes: "He gave some to be Apostles and some prophets, and some pastors and teachers (some business men, others housewives, but all for the same purpose) for the building up of the body of Christ till we are all come in the unity of faith unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ."

When we have fought this fight, when, in ourselves, we shall have finished this task, then and then only shall we find that the world is all right and filled with homes fit for our heroes to live in.

At the conclusion of the services in the Drumheller Mall says that in his recent hunt for prehistoric petrified bones, Prof. L. Sternberg of the Toronto Museum, has discovered several valuable specimens which have been sent to Toronto. An almost complete skeleton of a flesh-eating dinosaur was taken out of one part of the Red Deer valley, and this find was considered especially good.

(Edited by the Principal)
MATTHEW ARNOLD'S DEFINITION OF CULTURE

The first motive which ought to impel us to study is the desire to augment the excellence of our nature, and to render an intelligent being yet more intelligent. This is the true ground to assign for the genuine passion, however manifested, and for culture, viewed simply as a fruit of this passion; and "is a worthy ground, even though we let the term curiously stand to describe it."

But there is of culture another view, in which not solely the scientific passion, the sheer desire to see things as they are, appears as the ground of it. There is a view in which all the love of our neighbor, the impulses toward action, help, and beneficence, the desire for removing human error, clearing human confusion, and diminishing human misery, the noble aspiration to leave the world better and happier than we found it—motives eminently such as are called social—come in as part of the grounds of culture, and the main and pre-eminent part.

Culture is then properly described not as having its origin in intellectual curiosity, but as having its origin in the love of perfection; it is a study of perfection. It moves by the force, not merely or primarily of the scientific passion for pure knowledge but also for the moral and social passion for doing good.

As in the first view of it, we take for its worthy motto Montaigne's words: "To render an intelligent being yet more intelligent," so, in the second view of it there is no better motto which it can have than the words of Bishop Wilson: "To make reason and the will of God prevail."

Here and There

One of the largest cargoes of jewelry shipped from Saint John on the Canadian Atlantic sea coast was forwarded to Great Britain recently. It consisted of 3,043-0.66 feet, mostly of diamonds.

Output of nickel in Canada in 1932 totalled 30,327,068 pounds valued at $7,179,852. Production during the first nine months of 1933 amounted to 22,802,434 pounds as compared with 21,162,786 pounds for the corresponding period of 1932.

Every home at some future date will have "air conditioning" and the word "heating" will pass out of use among home owners, J. J. Donovan, General Electric Company expert, told a largely attended meeting of the Electrical Club at the Royal York hotel, Toronto, recently.

Steep grades of the Rocky Mountain areas presented no difficulty to the Royal Scot, crack British flyer, en route to Winnipeg and the east from Vancouver recently. The all-British train is attracting great popular enthusiasm throughout Canada on its return journey to Montreal.

Montreal's "million dollar hole" on Dorchester street, where a railway terminal was to have been built, will become the world's most costly sunken garden. If Canada sees eye to eye with a couple of Montreal aldermen who advocate beautifying the gash with flowers and shrubs.

Canadian Pacific employees under 21 and minor sons of employees are again offered the opportunity to win the University of Montreal scholarships by competitive examination, according to an announcement by Grant Hall, senior vice-president of the company. Applicants have until May 1, 1934, to make application.

Twenty-one months of training in a recognized shop, junior matriculation or its equivalent and a course in an academy to be established in Toronto is the ordeal for barbers and hairdressers. It was stated at a meeting of tonorial arbiters at the Royal York hotel, Toronto, recently.

Five ports hitherto not on the schedule of world cruise liners have been added to the 1934 itinerary of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain, when she leaves New York, January 4 next. They are Sena, Java, Borneo and P. Penang, Straits Settlements, and Zamboanga, in the Sulu Archipelago.

In making a choice between transportation by rail and by road, shippers should consider what the railroads are doing and have done for their shippers. G. G. O'Connell, development commissioner, sloner, Canadian Pacific Railway, told the Rotary Club of London, Ontario, recently. He discussed cases where the railroads had first inventoried, then developed the natural resources of the continent.

At the theatre, the above-named organizations marched to the Memorial Park, where wreaths were placed on the Cross of Sacrifice.

Farmers Must Take Advantage of Opportunity

Canadian farmers now enjoy market conditions in Britain more favorable than ever before, but unless, within the next five years, they take advantage of and develop their opportunities in this regard, the British market may be lost to them for generations. This was the chief point stressed by John Burns, general manager of Burns and Company, Limited, in an address before the Board of Trade and attended not only by prominent business men of Calgary but by leading livestock men from the entire Calgary district.

Canada, Mr. Burns declared, was assured for the next five years of a market for six times the quantity of bacon exported in 1932. This was one of the major results of the Ottawa agreements which formed the basis for the address.

The speaker said that, while in the past, farmers had diversified their operations usually at a loss to themselves because of inadvisable foreign markets. It was his opinion that at so time in many years had there been a more propitious time for the diversification of farming because the Ottawa agreements gave the farmers an outlet for their production of bacon, cheese, poultry, butter, eggs and cattle in the British market at prices enjoyed by British producers and producers in other dominions to the exclusion of foreign imports.

"Consequently," Mr. Burns said, "While I would not presume to advise farmers of this country as to what use they might convert acreage ordinarily sown to wheat, I would not hesitate to advise that they should very seriously consider diversifying their operations in order to seize these favorable markets for themselves not only in the present but particularly in the future, especially as applied to hog production."

"We may never have the same opportunity to secure for Canada an unlimited share in the British bacon requirements. We have that opportunity today, receiving as we do, the same consideration in the matter of imports as the British producer is receiving from his home government," he said.

Mr. Burns explained that a year ago the British government appointed a commission to make a survey of pig products and bacon requirements in Great Britain. The recommendations of the committee had been accepted by the British government and importing regulations would be legalized early in November in conformity with the Ottawa agreements dealing with bacon.

"This assures Canadian producers during a period of five years of an outlet in that market for more than six times the quantity Canada exported last year," Mr. Burns declared. "It is safe to say," Mr. Burns continued, "that if Canada takes full advantage of the market for her surplus bacon secured for her during the next five years and if she will increase her production sufficiently to become a commanding factor in imports, it is reasonable to suppose that Canada can expect to retain that market in the future even though the marketing arrangements might not be a satisfactory one as now."

"In this connection I might mention that Denmark, which has enjoyed the greatest outlet for bacon in the British market, now stands in the following comparative position with Canada, namely Denmark is supplying 62 per cent of Britain's bacon requirements and Canada is supplying 4.38 per cent. In their any reason why these percentages can not be reversed?"

Comparing the positions of other bacon exporting countries, Mr. Burns recalled that recently the United States government had bought in the open market 6,000,000 young pigs and 20,000 brood sows, the production of which was to be removed from the ordinary channels of distribution and consumption and thereby avoid their depressing effect upon prices farmers would receive for hogs. In addition to this, the United States government had been negotiating with the American government in New York for the purchase of 150,000,000 pounds of pork products to Russia on long term payments, now a surplus on their market.

Last autumn, Mr. Burns said, the government of Holland bought in the open market 100,000 young pigs and destroyed them to reduce the production of that country that they might conform to the quota for export to Great Britain under the terms of the Ottawa agreement. Denmark took similar steps because her exports were considerably cut by the quota system adopted at Ottawa.

In view of these actions to reduce productions in these countries because the British market had been partly closed to them by the Ottawa agreements, Canada was given the opportunity to increase her bacon production from 42,000,000 pounds, which she exported in 1932 to a possible 280,000,000 pounds each year for the next five years.

"There should be no hesitancy on the part of our producers to take full advantage of such a market especially in view of the declared intention of the British government to preserve for their own producers and producers in the Dominions that market during the lifetime of the agreements," Mr. Burns declared.

Mr. Burns said that the federal and provincial governments realizing the advantages offered Canadian hog producers, were doing everything possible to improve quality and to increase hog production in Canada. The latest move, particularly in Alberta, had been the government's campaign to undertake the promotion of exchange of open gifts and he read an excerpt from a letter from the deputy minister of agriculture to the effect that "Our department is prepared to undertake the promotion of an exchange of open gifts of select bacon type and quality for sows owned by farmers, which are in good marketable condition, provided the packers are prepared to accept such sows in exchange for such gifts as they may have coming to their plants, the understanding being that the sow so exchanged, will be taken in full compensation for the gift delivered."

The packers in Canada, Mr. Burns declared, were co-operating with the provincial governments in this campaign, convinced it was a step in the right direction. Federal and provincial governments were going further in encouraging the purchase and distribution of pure bred boars.

The hog population of Canada on June 1, 1933, showed a decrease of 20 per cent compared with the same date last year. This was a matter of regret and disappointment in view of the market offered under the Ottawa agreements. It was to be hoped, however, that with the increase in the price of hogs that Canada would export a greater number during 1933 and 1934 and that the consumption of beef in Canada which was so low in price because of the unfavorable markets would increase at least correspondingly.

As a result of the Ottawa agreements, a further market had been opened in Great Britain for Canadian cheese and butter, the agreements providing a tariff of 15 shillings per hundredweight on butter and a 15 per cent ad valorem duty on cheese. Canadian cheese had held a commanding position on the English market for many years, although exports declined from 1,249,000 cwt. in 1913 to 747,000 cwt. in 1932. New Zealand had increased her exports to England from 548,000 cwt. in 1913 to 1,853,000 cwt. in 1932.

Canada enjoys the same privileges and protection as New Zealand in the British market on cheese, and exactly the same conditions prevail in respect to butter," Mr. Burns said. "Is there any reason why we should not increase our cheese and butter exports to the exclusion at least of foreign products on the English market?"

Under the Ottawa agreements, Canada, with the other dominions, enjoyed a preference of 3 cents per dozen on eggs and 10 per cent ad valorem on poultry and thus a market that had been closed since before the Great War had been opened.

In respect to cattle and beef, the speaker continued, Canada now enjoyed the same privileges in England as Ireland had had in the past and now Ireland paid a duty whereas Canadian cattle were permitted free entry. The low world market, however, made it difficult if not unprofitable for Canada to export beef or cattle and thus the Canadian home market and industry were depressed, head as compared with 27,000 head last year Canada had exported 35,000 in 1931.

During 1931 Canada had imported in the form of canned beef the approximate equal of 25,000 head of cattle, all of which came from South America. During the past year duties on canned beef had been increased considerably, thus offering protection to the cattle raiser.

According to Hon. H. H. Stevens, Mr. Burns said in quoting from an address delivered by the former at Ottawa this week, Canada consumed 98 per cent of her cattle production leaving only two per cent of a surplus, which was today deciding the market for Canada's entire production and, in Mr. Burns' opinion, Mr. Stevens rightly asked the question, "What can be done to right the situation?"

The packers of Canada, Mr. Burns declared, had done what they could to find an export market without success. It was impossible to compete with the British market with Argentine chilled beef. The situation in Canada was only one that could be dealt with by governments and the industry itself because Canadians might either decrease production to a point sufficient for home consumption or remove the exportable surplus from the market in order to improve the price. Several suggestions had been made in this respect, namely, the housing of cattle exports; the federal government's purchase of feeder cattle of right quality, quantity and age to be fed and exported by the government; and the housing of spayed heifers to reduce the breeding stock. Definite action, however, must be taken by the industry itself.

The cost of shipping cattle made it almost impossible to compete with Argentine beef. Undoubtedly the logical market for Canadian cattle was the American market, which he hoped would be available when conditions again became normal—Calgary, Alberta.

LIFE OF 2106

No skyscrapers will be standing two centuries hence, prophesies H. G. Wells, British historian and novelist. They will have been demolished to make way for larger, finer, more desirable cities. Social life will be organized around public clubs in which will be grouped sports halls, perpetual news cinemas, studios and social centers. Mr. Wells sketches a graphic preview of the world of 2106 A.D. as he will give it in a history written as of that year.

"The twenty-first century," he says, "rediscovered an experience of the nineteenth century and the first centuries of the Christian era, a discovery also made by Alexander the Great, that it is much easier to build great modern cities in new places than to modernize the old centres of activity. And the more vital these old centres remained, the more difficult was their reconstruction—New York was typical of this lag in rebuilding. Up to quite recently, Lower New York was the world's most old-fashioned city, unique in its gloomy antiquity. The last of the ancient skyscrapers, the Empire State building, is even now under demolition in 2106."

Mr. Wells foresees a new era of homes, quickly erected and even more quickly demolished. "We no longer think it meet," he writes, "to wear another man's abandoned house than to wear the old clothes of the dead." And speaking of clothes, he recalls the filthy twentieth century, when "men would wear their underclothes for years, having them painfully washed out, dried, ironed and returned weekly, and they would wear their complex outer garments with all the old fastenings, buttons, straps, and so forth, sometimes for years. They had to be made of dark fabrics, with broken patterns to conceal their griminess." But in the

AN ENTERPRISING INVENTOR

Weird and wonderful are some of the inventions for which patents have been granted at the patents office in London.

"For instance," an official said to a reporter, "we have just granted a patent for a gigantic machine designed to clear the road of dead pedestrians who have been knocked down by traffic.

"The machine is equipped with a 'grab' which lifts the body and deposits it in an electric incinerator fitted with a special chemical destructor, to turn the body into a fertilizing agent."

Another man has patented a device to harness lightning and direct it in small flashes against an enemy.

new day, he goes on, clothes are scanty and healthful and are replaced at least every three days by fresh ones. Nothing is washed. Laundries are forgotten. Cobblers are unknown.

And in the world of 2106, travel becomes the simplest of matters. Mr. Wells sees the ordinary man of that day arranging overnight for a return to the ends of the earth. Off he goes in the clothes he wears, armed only with his wallet, his identification book or something he may desire to read. Whatever else he is likely to need he will find on his way. Everyone moves about freely—and poverty is something about which one reads in history books.

The Terrible Cough Seemed to Hang On

Mrs. M. Dukart, Bradwell, Sask., writes:—"For a long time I suffered from a terrible cough which seemed to hang on despite numerous medicines I took. I was told about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so I started taking it right away. I took two bottles and my cough was gone. Now I always keep my medicine chest well supplied with it."
